Lifelong Learning classes start January, 10th—April, 13th
Welcome! Community & Friends.

What can we do for you? In our search for just the right combination of offerings the Center for Lifelong Learning will be sending out a survey this summer asking for your ideas, hobbies, and expertise in all genres of topics. We want you to have classes built to fit your needs. All you have to do is send back the survey. Thank you and have a Happy and Prosperous New Year!

To each of you I say,

As the cold winter months creep along, let us take time to do something different to make those days fly by! Learn something new! Take a class that you have always wanted to, but just couldn’t bring yourself to start. Now is the perfect time. Let’s take the chill out of the air and warm up our minds with new creations taking a class that will inspire, create and revive a spirit of personal growth.

The Center for Lifelong Learning is springing into action this year with new and fun classes for you to revive the need to learn and grow personally. Learn a new recipe, bring your friends over for an evening dinner and make it fun!. And, this time of year is perfect for learning how to prepare your landscapes, potting seeds and inside flowers for the spring.

Last fall, some of you enjoyed two parts of “The World of Piano—Pre-Chat Series” in partnership with Shenandoah Conservatory and the Center for Lifelong Learning. I am pleased to announce...it is not over! This spring will continue with its “Pre Chat Series” starting with Jeremy Denk, Nikolay Khozyainov, and the finale with Pascal Rogé. For more information about these wonderful chats before the show see page 15.

The Center for Lifelong Learning is in partnership with Ed2Go, who offers a wide range of highly interactive courses that you can take entirely over the Internet. Expert instructors, many of whom are nationally known authors, will lead all of the courses. Our online courses are affordable, fun, fast, convenient, and geared just for you. So, sit back in the privacy of your own home and take an online class ranging from computer applications, personal development or learning to write your own story and how publish it.

I look forward to seeing more people inspired by our classes. And, if you long to teach and feel you can help us bring that creative spirit alive...WE WANT YOU! Consider your gifts and join our team of excellent faculty and instructors already teaching at the Center for Lifelong Learning. Always remember... YOU never stop learning...at any age!

With gratitude,

Jo Miller

TUESDAYS

Great Decisions is about inspiring learning around the world. For 60 years, Great Decisions has given fascinating examples of the role citizens can play in discovering, discussing and deciding how to meet some of the world’s greatest challenges.

Global challenges have increasingly become domestic challenges with events in the remotest parts of the world affecting our lives in myriad ways. There is more movement across national boundaries than ever before—of people, money information, ideas, images and much more. Great Decisions takes you beyond the headlines by providing a look at eight of the most significant and far-reaching challenges facing the world. Each annual edition provides essential background, relevant facts, present and future policy options and impartial analyses to help you assess the challenges ahead.

All your instructors will be Shenandoah University faculty members who have chosen a topic in their special field of study. Our hope is that each of you will join in the discussions as we gain a better understanding of these global topics affecting Americans’ role in the world and policy makers’ responses. Open to Public!

Color Your World with Acrylics!

Did you ever want to tap into your creative spirit? This five-week class will teach various styles and techniques of acrylic painting with the focus on composition, light, shadows, color contrasts, textures, and patterns.

Mr. Fickau will help each participant discover their love of painting, teach the skills, and instill the confidence to use different painting styles. Participants will learn how to prepare a canvas, sketch the subject based on a staged still life, and create a painting in the style of their choice.

Your instructor, Larry L. Fickau, has a Bachelor of Art degree and worked as a graphic designer and senior art director for publishing companies, advertising agencies, and national corporations. Throughout his career, he has been an award-winning fine arts painter and photographer.

His passion is painting with acrylics and working with multi-media projects. His work has appeared in galleries and art shows in Chicago and Washington, D.C, and he has been represented by photo stock companies in New York and Virginia. He hopes that the class will assist each participant individually throughout the course and address any questions or concerns. The last session will allow time for a discussion and critique of students’ work. Class limited to 12. A material list will be provided.

Caring for the Earth: Making Useful Connections

Learning about sustainability or permaculture (permanent agriculture) minimizes work, “waste” becomes resources, “productivity” yields increase, and the environment is restored. This five-week class will help you learn how to manage land, our lives and our livelihoods by taking our part in caring for the earth.

We will explore many ways to make useful connections buy using the same methods that Mother Nature does. We will discuss cooperation between different people, elements and communities. We will brainstorm on ways to connect the right people together in the right ways to create a healthy and harmonic system for the world we live in. Who will benefit?

People involved in permaculture, transition towns, urban farms, community gardens, environmental studies and social change. We will use a combination of free flowing lectures, video presentations and structured group discussions that focus on positivism and cooperation globally and locally.

Your instructor, Mary Margaret Cave, inherited a passion for farming from her grandparents who lived and farmed in Clarke County. She received her BA in English and then began teaching. In 1997, while teaching on the border of Mexico, she lived "off the Grid", homesteading and raising livestock. Continuing her interest in permaculture, she then moved back to Virginia, taught Special education, and was involved in a small farm operation in Berryville. She has taught children of all ages in techniques such as seeding, propagation, no till gardening, worm composting and building soil.

Culinary Boot Camp!

Want to learn professional kitchen skills, techniques, and recipes from a “Real Chef?” Join this 5-week culinary boot camp class to help take your kitchen skills to the next level. Participants will be taught everything from basic culinary skills, to proper preparation of ingredients, to executing recipes successfully.

During this educational, hands-on class, your instructor and Nibblins co-owner, Chef Susan Dolinar, will teach the following: Knife Skills, Stocks and Sauces, Vegetables and Side Dishes, Entrees, and Desserts. You’ll be supplied all the recipes taught during the series, and best of all...you can enjoy eating the foods you create! All supplies and ingredients will be included with your registration fee.

Your instructor, Susan Dolinar, Chef and Co-owner of Nibblins of Winchester, has taught many classes for the Center for Lifelong Learning over the past five years. Come and learn from a culinary expert how to cook a meal that’s sure to impress your family and guests for any occasion. (Class limit 12)

SPOTLIGHT: . . . before the curtain rises . . .

You’ve bought your ticket, you arrive at the theatre, you are settling into your seat, and you open your program. As you look forward to enjoying the program, do you ever wonder what took place prior to your arrival?*

In three sessions, we will explore what is required for mounting a stage production: selecting the work, designing and building the costumes and set, the weeks of rehearsals, culminating in opening night.

It doesn’t stop with the opening night. Add the huge list of activities that take place prior to and following every performance, once the show has begun its run: the arrival of cast and crew, actor and crew preparation for running the show, and the post performance responsibilities that need to be done before leaving the theatre.

Your instructor, Dr. James Laster, Professor Emeritus at Shenandoah Conservatory of Shenandoah University, Winchester, Virginia, holds degrees in music history and biology from Maryville College; the M.A. in musicology, and the Ph.D. in church music from George Peabody College; and a Master of Science in Library Science (music emphasis) from Catholic University. He also holds a certificate in organ from the Mozarteum Summer Academy, Salzburg, Austria.

While at Shenandoah, he was the musical director for over fifty music theatre productions which served as the background for his book, So You’re The New Musical Director—a guide to conducting a Broadway musical published by Scarecrow Press. In addition, he is the compiler of several music catalogs as well as the composer of many published choral compositions. Since retirement from Shenandoah in 2000, he has been his privilege to appear in various stage and film roles.

Gardening & Greenhouse Tips

Getting tips from the expert will enhance your gardening skills and get you started for a beautiful spring home setting that anyone would be proud of, and you will be able to start now and do it all yourself!

This course is built especially for the novice gardener. Each participant will be given tips on how and when to start your own seed propagation system in your own home or greenhouse. Learn the secrets to growing Orchids and how to take care of these precious plants.

Improve your gardening skills, learn how and when to plant, prune, maintain your lawn, landscape and gardens as well as using the right fertilization and when. Learning the right plant management plans for your gardens will make your home a beautiful retreat and welcome your friends over for a visit.

Your expert instructor, Mike Weber, owner of Weber’s Nursery, who is a Certified VA Nurserymen and has over 55 years of experience in greenhouse and gardening, will ensure your spring gardens to be a natural work of art. All materials will be provided.

You Own a Computer... Now What?

The computer is out of the box, new, shiny with that new computer smell. But you sit in front of it wondering what all those attachments are or what to do next. How these words do sounds to you? Internet, wireless, viruses, android, Instagram, Word, Excel, media... so many new things! But you don’t know where to turn to for answers. Well...we have the answers for you so you can put that computer to work for you.

Participants will learn basic computer skills: using the keyboard and mouse, basic word processing, printing, searching the Internet, e-mail, formatting text, graphics, excel, malware, social media and more. Enjoy learning how to connect to the outside world with the new techniques you’ve just learned and share with your family and friends. Skype with your grandchildren, email a friend from long ago or dare I say.... buy something online. The possibilities are endless for you now.

Join us on this five-week journey in learning and knowing that these computer skills will help you produce more efficient projects and save time, opening new doors and creating new opportunities.

Your instructor, Charlotte Hernandez Velez is Shenandoah University’s Institutional Computing Helpdesk Supervisor. She graduated from George Washington University with a B.A. in Criminal Justice, Shepherd University with a B.S. in Computer Science/Networking and University of Phoenix with a Masters of Information Systems/Management. She holds CompTIA A+, Network+ and Security+ certifications.

THURSDAYS

Heroines: Past, Present and Future!

What does being a “heroine” mean? What are acts of heroic? Who are the heroines of today?

In this 5-week class you will discover many historic heroines of our present, past and of today. You will begin to recognize all kinds heroines, young and old. Answering the questions above, you will have a better understanding of who and what constitutes a true “Heroine” and why.

Our women heroes can be found everywhere, in all walks of life. For example, during World War II, Josephine Baker, the famous entertainer, worked for the French Resistance and received the Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor.

Corrie ten Boom was a member of the Resistance in The Netherlands and the author of The Hiding Place, made into a film in 1975. Marlene Dietrich, actress and entertainer with the USO, was a member of the espionage organization called the Office of Strategic Services (OSS); and Martha Gellhorn, Ernest Hemingway’s third wife, was a war correspondent and novelist.

In addition, we will explore more public personalities such as those who defended their homes or nursed soldiers during the American Civil War and those who assisted persons being persecuted during World War II. So much more to explore! As part of this class, we will share our personal stories of our own heroines. Each participant will have the opportunity share stories about their own personal heroine—their mother, their grandmother, a special friend, a neighbor, and/or a war heroine.

Your instructor, Karen Brill, has been a volunteer docent educator at the Museum of the Shenandoah Valley for twelve years. During this time, she attended numerous training session related to art; art history; pottery; local historical homes, including Glen Burnie; and local historical figures such as James Wood, the founder of Winchester, and Cornelia Peak MacDonald, a Civil War diarist. Ms. Brill has immersed herself in World War II history for more than fifteen years. She has a long-time interest in women heroines, including women of the American Revolution and American Civil War. Readings have included first-hand sources such as Anne Frank’s “The Diary of a Young Girl” and Corrie ten Boom’s “The Hiding Place”.

Bugs and Bytes: National Security Law and Policies Today

Whether it is WikiLeaks, NSA data-gathering (i.e. spying) on private citizens, or even so-called “dual-use” scientific research, matters related to National Security are important news matters and, potentially may even effect us personally. Almost every day, the media report on matters that raise national security issues and questions. The answers to these questions often result in political decisions or military operations that significantly affect the lives of Americans and others around the World. This course focuses upon the delicate balance between liberty and security that must exist to preserve democracy.

Your instructor, John Winn, JD, LLM is Professor of Business Law at the Harry F. Byrd, Jr. School of Business at Shenandoah University in Winchester, Virginia. He is the recipient of numerous faculty teaching awards including Shenandoah University’s “Teacher of the Year” for 2009-2010. Previously, Mr. Winn served in the Judge Advocate General’s Corps (Army) from 1985 through 2005. His various military assignments domestically and abroad included teaching positions in the Criminal Law Department at the Judge Advocate General’s School, Charlottesville, Virginia and the Department of Law, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York.

Mr. Winn has served as a consultant to Human Rights First, an international organization that promotes adherence to universal human rights, as well as providing consultancy services for small business start-ups.

Interior Design Plus Feng Shui for Your Home

Want to make a personal style statement in your home?

This class combines the principles and elements of interior design with those of Feng Shui, the ancient art and science of placement and energy flow. Comparing these two approaches, you will learn how to create a unique environment, develop your aesthetic sense, and make meaningful design choices that maximize the potential of any space. As a result, you will experience a greater degree of comfort, beauty, functionality, and harmony.

Your instructor, Sandra Ritenour, of Peace and Plenty Feng Shui is certified in Feng Shui and Interior Design, as well as Building Biology and Green Building Practices. Sandra has taught many Feng Shui classes at Shenandoah University in the past and enjoys helping people realize the peacefulness in arranging just a few pieces around your home can make is so much more pleasurable!
THURSDAYS

Beginning Watercolor: Thinking Spring!

After winter we are so ready for new beginnings and fresh ideas are everywhere. In this five-week class participants will learn how to use brushes, water, pigment and paper to create five lovely pieces of Springtime splendor.

The only requirement for the class is the desire to have fun and learn something new or enhance already learned watercolor skills. These are wonderfully simple pieces and easy to create, or you can use a pattern and transfer a design to your paper. Patterns will be readily available.

Tulip Time—create colorful tulips in a vase or in a garden using shading, highlighting and blending techniques; learn to paint a bow to tie your tulips together and add some winter wheat or greenery for an extra touch of texture.

Whimsical watercolor flowers—the use of blending colors to create a bouquet of flowers in a glass vase, basket or pot, or along a wall in your garden. Learn to “drop” and blend colors into your flower petals.

April showers—the use of wet-on-wet techniques to create the feeling of rain and puddles in a simple landscape with a stone path using perspective and adding a tree canopy to protect us from the rain.

Blossoms-apple-cherry-dogwood—use of multiple layers to create the old favorites—great for making cards. A few beautiful blossoms with branches will make you feel you can almost smell their wonderful fragrance.

Put it all together—design your own piece using the ideas from the previous classes, maybe even add a bubbling brook or a barn in a field of blooming flowers-you choose and create your own masterpiece.

Your instructor, Beth Cristy has been a visual artist for many years located in Stephens City, Virginia, Ms. Cristy presents simple, concise techniques in a user-friendly manner. Beth’s art interests include watercolor portraiture, still lives, landscapes, and watercolor as well as batiks on rice paper, silk painting on scarves and miniatures. Materials fee of $10 to be paid to instructor first night of class. Materials list will be provided upon request. Class limited to 12.

THUR: 3/13—4/10/2014 Time: 6-8 p.m.
Course: CONT 087 CLL1 CEUs 1 Location: Main Campus, Room TBA

Supplemental Teaching – STEM: Science, Technology, Engineering and Math

TEACHERS AND PARENTS TAKE A LOOK AT THIS!

The STEM approach to instruction is designed to provide students with essential skills including creativity and innovation, critical thinking and problem solving, communication and collaboration, flexibility and adaptability, initiative and self-direction, and leadership and responsibility.

STEM: Children’s Engineering is designed to provide teachers, administrators and parents with an overview of strategies essential to the integration of science, technology, engineering and mathematics into everyday learning.

In this 3-day workshop participants will be provided with guidance about how to create a STEM learning environment in their classroom/home as well as the opportunity to experience STEM lessons firsthand through a series of tasks and models intended to promote STEM programming.

Your instructor, Amy Angelo has worked as a school administrator and teacher for over twenty years. She has exceptional experience in the integration of science, technology, engineering and mathematics - 'STEM' programming - for elementary school students. Her current school incorporates a STEM program and an after school STEM club, both of which she facilitates together with several teachers and volunteers. A materials list will be provided upon registration.

What is the Meaning of YOUR Life? (Please check, locations, dates and times below!  FREE! No need to register.)

This lecture addresses the concerns of many who are fifty years of age and older whose lives and careers are in transition. Most people at this juncture have a desire for a formal period of reflection and renewal prior to moving on to their next stage of life and work.

The “boomers” aged 46 to 64 are often focused on learning how to identify their innate “purpose.” They yearn to change some aspects of their personal and work lives in order that they can improve their personal experiences, and accomplish objectives they now determine to be essential for professional performance. The “senior citizens” aged 65 and over tend to be interested in allocating time for a period of “rejuvenation and contribution” as they move forward toward retirement.

Facilitated conversation is used to assist each person to identify, prioritize, integrate and summarize what is unique to him/her within the context of other key relationships. A format for taking action is distributed and explained for personal use.

Guest speaker, Dr. Garrity received his Bachelors and Masters Degrees in Economics and Management from Monmouth University in New Jersey, and his Masters and Doctorate Degrees in Public Administration from the University of Southern California. His major publication is entitled: Learnership 2009: The Reinvigoration of America through Total Learning, Knowing and Leading as a Mindful Way-of-Being.  FREE! No need to register.

“THE BULLETPROOF MIND”

One Day Only!

Lt. Colonel Dave Grossman, U.S. Army (Ret.) Director, Warrior Science Group, www.killology.com: Member, American Board for Certification in Homeland Security; Member, American College of Forensic Examiners Institute, is an internationally recognized scholar, author, soldier, and speaker who is one of the world’s foremost experts in the field of human aggression and the roots of violence and violent crime.

Col. Grossman is a former West Point psychology professor, Professor of Military Science, and an Army Ranger who has combined his experiences to become the founder of a new field of scientific endeavor, which has been termed “killology.” In this new field Col. Grossman has made revolutionary new contributions to our understanding of killing in war, the psychological costs of war, the root causes of the current "virus" of violent crime that is raging around the world, and the process of healing the victims of violence, in war and peace.

In partnership with the Winchester City Police Department and the Center for Lifelong Learning at Shenandoah University this year’s certification class, The Bulletproof Mind: Mental Preparation for Combat will feature Col. Grossman as one of the nation’s leading law enforcement trainers.

He is the author of the book, On Killing. He has served as a trainer and keynote speaker for all major national and international law enforcement training organizations (including: FLETC, IALEFI, ASLET, NTOA and PPCT) and he has taught the representatives of literally thousands of federal and regional agencies in the US, Canada, New Zealand, and Australia.

Participants will be able to receive their DCJS certification from WCPD as well as a transcript for CEUs from Shenandoah University and a certificate of completion from the Center for Lifelong Learning.

Ralph Lee Smith is a leading authority on the history of the mountain dulcimer and traditional Appalachian music. He plays the dulcimer to accompany old and field-collected mountain songs. He is co-author of five books of traditional Appalachian songs, arranged for singing with dulcimer, and is the author of Appalachian Dulcimer Traditions, a standard history of the instrument.

Ralph has received a Lifetime Achievement Award from Western Carolina University for his work in searching out the roots of the dulcimer's history in the mountain world.

Jody Marshall is known for her clear, accessible approach to teaching hammered dulcimer. She has taught extensively at festivals and music events from coast to coast and overseas, and has conducted private and group lessons for more than twenty years. Jody’s performance credits include the White House, the Kennedy Center, Wolf Trap’s Filene Center for the Performing Arts, and the Birchmere. The Washington Post describes her music as “lovely, lively, and shimmering.” She has several recordings to her credit, including Cottage in the Glen and Carol of the Bells.

Jeff Furman is an award-winning mountain dulcimer player who is known for his smooth and expressive style. His gentle, humorous, and effective teaching style has made him a popular instructor at numerous mountain dulcimer workshops across the country. Jeff is a multi-instrumentalist who has been playing old-time music since 1980. On the mountain dulcimer he has a particular fondness for waltzes and Celtic airs. His technical abilities and musical sensitivity have made Jeff a popular choice for playing on multiple recordings, including music from Ireland, Scotland, the Appalachian Mountains. Touching someone’s heart with his music is Jeff’s most rewarding goal.

Arts centers and universities throughout the United States have presented Madeline MacNeil in concert. Across the Atlantic, she has performed at the O’Carolan Festival in Ireland, the Glasgow Festival of the Arts in Scotland and for the Nonsuch Dulcimer Gathering in England. For several years she was a touring artist under the sponsorship of the Virginia Commission for the Arts. She is an author of mountain and hammered dulcimer books for Mel Bay Publications and has recorded numerous CDs through the years.

Nina Zanetti is the 2008 National Mountain Dulcimer Champion. She comes to the dulcimer from a diverse musical background, which includes choral music, violin, viola, piano and shape note singing. She plays regularly at churches, historic sites, and community events and has taught workshops at dulcimer festivals throughout the country. Nina is especially fond of gentle, finger-style arrangements: the “softer side of dulcimer.” She has published six tablature books, and her CDs include Beside Still Waters and The Sum of the Parts (with Bill Collins).
