HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

Austin Colby

Caroline Bowman

A husband-and-wife Broadway duo, Caroline Bowman and Austin Colby have captivated audiences all over the world with their individual artistry in musical theatre and their shared stage presence, notably starring together as Elsa and Hans in the North American tour of Disney’s “Frozen.”

Caroline has built a powerhouse career on Broadway, starring as the iconic Elphaba in “Wicked” and as a member of the original cast of the Tony Award-winning “Kinky Boots.” Additionally, Caroline has held lead roles as Eva Perón in the national tour of “Evita,” the Lady of the Lake in “Spamalot,” and in “Smash.”

Austin, a charismatic and versatile leading man, has distinguished himself on Broadway and in premiere regional productions. He starred as Tom Buchanan in the original Broadway cast of “The Great Gatsby,” as well as in an off-Broadway production of “Jersey Boys,” the national tour of “The Sound of Music,” and a regional production of “West Side Story.”

Beyond their professional accolades, Caroline and Austin are celebrated for their commitment to the arts community. Shenandoah University honors their exceptional contributions to the American theatre and their inspiring journey as partners in both life and art.

UNDERGRADUATE HONORS

All candidates for bachelor's degrees are eligible for honors based on the cumulative grade point average for any credits earned after initial registration at Shenandoah University.

Gold cords are worn by students graduating with honors. Honors for the commencement ceremony are calculated at the end of the fall semester and are listed in the program. Final honors are calculated with the spring semester grades and appear on the transcript and diploma.

The grade point averages required for undergraduate academic honors are:

3.9 - Summa Cum Laude, with highest praise

3.7 - Magna Cum Laude, with great praise

3.5 - Cum Laude, with praise

OTHER CORDS AND STOLES

In addition to the traditional cap and gown regalia worn at commencement, graduates are entitled to wear honor cords and stoles to signify achievement through college organizations or association with international groups or programs.

Cords and Stoles - An honor cord is a token consisting of twisted cords with tassels on either end. Students may wear more than one cord at the same time. A stole is a decorative vestment worn and takes the form of a cloth scarf-like garment worn over the shoulders. Students may wear only one stole. Students wear cords and stoles to signify academic honors or affiliation with a campus group or organization.

ACADEMIC HERALDRY

The wearing of caps, gowns and hoods at college and university functions dates to the Middle Ages when they were worn by monks and students in order to keep warm in damp and drafty 12th-century castles and halls of learning. Through the years, the style and color of caps, gowns and hoods have come to represent certain exact meanings. The following descriptions apply to current American usage. A number of variations are represented in the regalia worn by those who received degrees from non-American institutions. Gowns for bachelor's and master's degrees have semi-stiff yokes, long pleated fronts and may have intricate shirring across the shoulders and backs.

Gowns for the doctoral degree have long velvet panels down the front and three velvet bars on the bell-shaped sleeve. This velvet trimming may be either black or the color distinctive of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. Shenandoah has distinctive doctoral robes that were designed with President Fitzsimmons' regalia in mind; both are a rich red with deep navy trim and the Shenandoah seal embroidered in gold on the front. Shenandoah University school colors line the academic hood.

Caps may be of serge, broadcloth, cotton, rayon, silk or — for the doctoral regalia only — of velvet. The tassel of the doctoral cap may be of gold thread. Caps are normally mortarboard in form, although square-topped caps are traditional for certain universities.

The hood carries the heaviest symbolic burden. The hood indicates the level of the degree, the discipline and the institution which awarded it. The level of the degree is shown by the size of the hood, the width of the velvet trimming and — in the case of doctoral degree — by the shape. Master's hoods are three and one-half feet long; doctoral hoods are four feet long.

The color of the trim identifies the discipline of the degree. For example, doctorates in Arts, Letters and Humanities are white. Education is light blue. Fine Arts is brown. Music is pink. Nursing is apricot.

The institution that awarded the degree is shown by the hood's lining. Because there are so many universities and a limited number of colors, many schools use multiple colors on the lining of the hood, often with the contrasting color in the shape of a chevron.

Shenandoah University's colors are blue and red. Faculty who have served 20 years or more wear a red and blue shoulder cord on their regalia.

OFFICIAL GRADUATION LIST

This program is not an official graduation list. Because commencement takes place immediately following final exams, successful completion of spring term courses cannot be verified in time for this program. In addition, Shenandoah University policy allows students who are within six credits of completing the degree requirements to participate in commencement although the degree will not be conferred until all requirements have been completed. Finally, a student's name may be omitted from the program if he or she is late in applying to graduate.

Thus the program should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The university's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record kept by the Registrar's Office.

DIPLOMAS

To increase accuracy and to prevent damage to the diplomas, Shenandoah University does not distribute official degrees at the ceremony. A graduate's official degree will be mailed to the address provided within six to eight weeks after graduation, as long as all necessary obligations and requirements are met. During the ceremony, graduates will be given a mock diploma scroll.
